Partner Presentation: Columbia Basin Collaborative - Mike Edmondson, Administrator Idaho Governor's Office of Species Conservation

Mike Edmondson, Idaho Governor's Office of Species Conservation Administrator, presented information on the Columbia Basin Collaborative. Mike gave a short background, describing differences between the past Columbia River Partnership Task Force efforts and the Collaborative's current focus; discussed roles; and emphasized the current focus to establish technical work groups (see Mike's slides here in the meeting's presentation). For more background information, see the final CBPTF report: A Vision for Salmon and Steelhead: Goals to Restore Thriving Salmon and Steelhead to the Columbia River Basin: Phase 2 Report of the Columbia River Partnership Task Force of the Marine Fisheries Advisory Committee. A list of the current working groups and contacts is attached to the meeting follow-up email; note that additional names are still being added to the working groups. For more information, please contact Mike at mike.edmondson@osc.idaho.gov.

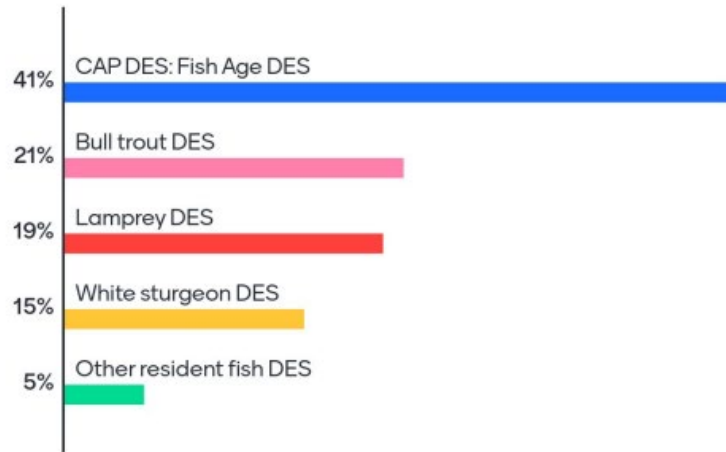

Polling results

During this part of the meeting, we discussed potential tasks for future work that span both StreamNet and PNAMP. To improve efficiencies and collaboration, we posed a few questions in a live poll format to help identify focused topics. Below are the results from those three questions. Committee members noted that this is relevant to the CAP 5-year plan that was discussed with only the StreamNet Executive Committee meeting earlier in the day. Staff will consider how to streamline the discussion in the future. If you have additional input or would like to add a recommendation, please contact Jen, jbayer@usgs.gov, or Nancy, nleonard@psmfc.org.
